

World Police System Is Frisco Plan

(Editor's notice: This is the second of a series explaining the purposes of the San Francisco Conference in April 1945. The first was in the April 4 issue.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 6.—(UP)—The United Nations conference in San Francisco April 25 will be like organizing an international police department.

The idea is this: If you see a cop on the corner, you won't be ready to drive through a red light. The cop, the nations who join the organization—agree to try to keep the world at peace after this war ends.

If that fails, they gang up on a war-mongering nation and use force, such as armies and bombs.

Present plans call for three main kinds of equipment for keeping the peace:

1. A world court of justice.
2. A general assembly of all nations.
3. A security council.

Here's the simplified explanation of how the equipment would be used:

The world court—Two nations have a dispute, maybe over the rights of a river, or the ownership of a piece of land. They go to the court. The court settles the dispute.

The general assembly—All members of the big international police department would have representatives on this assembly. To be admitted as a member a nation would have to be considered a "peace-loving" nation.

Diplomats may quarrel with this, but it would be like a debating society. Suppose nation AAA makes unfriendly moves toward nation BB. Nation BB would bring the matter up at the assembly. State his case and perhaps get world opinion on his side.

The security council—The council might be enough to calm down nation AAA and persuade it to remain peaceful.

The assembly could do other things, such as recommend commendations on disarmament, or ways to keep peace, or to keep peace economically and socially.

But the assembly, in spite of all its powers, would not be the most important decision of all: the decision to use force against some nation.

Douglas or Crowley May Get Loan Job

Washington, April 5.—(UP)—Administration leaders in the Senate were betting today that either Douglas or Crowley would get the loan job.

Douglas' name was brought strongly into the spotlight by a high ranking Democratic senator who said that the 46-year-old former court justice "can have the job if he wants it."

"And I've seen reports that he does," he said.

The present loan administrator Fred H. Brown was confirmed by the Senate yesterday to succeed James P. Byrnes as director of war mobilization.

Crowley has been mentioned as a possible successor ever since Vincent's nomination was announced Monday.

One senior high in administration circles said the Senate would regard Douglas as a "fine choice" and would confirm him readily.

How Frisco Would Prevent War

Editor's note: This is the third story in a series explaining the proposals which must be considered by the delegates to the United Nations conference in San Francisco April 25.

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, April 6.—(AP)—Suppose, as a result of the United Nations conference in San Francisco April 25, a world organization is created to prevent wars after this war.

Just how could the organization prevent a nation from starting a war?

If the aggressor was one of the big five: the United States, United Kingdom, Soviet Russia, China, France.

(It couldn't. Each of the big five could veto any move by any one of the other smaller nations.) (The United Nations would be much more effective against a smaller nation because the smaller nations would have no veto power.)

But—one of the big five could veto any action taken against it.

Here's how it would work: The backbone of the organization would be the executive council. It would be made up of 11 members. Five of the 11 would be the big five.

The other six would be elected for only two years.

Through all the problems coming out of a majority vote of the 11 members would be the big five.

Suppose Russia, one of the big five, decided to start a war.

It could bring its case to the attention of the world by complaining to the council.

The council would vote on whether to investigate. Poland's complaint through these preliminary stages of fact-finding an accused nation in this case Russia, even though a member of the big five—could not vote.

Suppose the preliminary steps are gone through. Comes the vote on whether to use force against Poland.

These things could happen:

1. The big five vote on the council (majority of 7 votes noted above) against Poland's action against Poland.

Then the forces of the United Nations would be turned on Poland.

2. The big five vote unanimously to take action against Poland.

Then the six smaller members of the council vote "no." Then no action would be taken.

3. The big five vote unanimously to take action against Poland.

Then the six smaller members of the council vote "no." Then no action would be taken.

Hold Everything Natchitoches Mans Levees to Beat Flood

New Orleans, April 6.—(AP)—Natchitoches pitched in today with shovels and sacks to save the imperiled town while elsewhere the flood front new danger spots turned up.

In central Louisiana alone, Red Cross officials said more than 5,000 families have been removed from threatened areas along the rampaging Red river, troublesome Mississippi tributary.

Meanwhile, from Cairo, Ill., to New Orleans engineers kept a 24-hour vigil in the flooded Mississippi. Crews worked all night sandbagging levees and building new embankments.

A sandbag developed suddenly at Lake Providence on the Mississippi and engineers promptly sandbagged it. Minor sandbags and seepage have also developed on the Yazoo, Red and Ouachita rivers.

Twenty miles west of Natchitoches the levee at Armstrong broke and marooned 300 families. A Texas and Pacific tugboat and seepage have also developed on the Yazoo, Red and Ouachita rivers.

A big plan from Barksdale Field dropped rafts to persons stranded on the roofs of houses at East Point where Loggy Bayou rose suddenly, inundating the town.

In the fight at Natchitoches Mayor E. L. McClung called on all able-bodied men and boys to aid in the sandbagging and building new embankments.

The situation was reported under control early today but reports said constant work would be needed to save the city.

In Natchitoches parish more than 100,000 acres of farm land are already under water.

Army engineers expect to blast open the Morganza floodway in the vicinity of Port, forcing a steady flow of water into the Mississippi waters through the 1,000 square mile Atchafalaya bay to the Gulf.

Opening of the floodway will drive 100,000 families from their homes. Engineers are building a 10-foot levee to protect Morgan City—population 6,000—the Gulf end of the basin.

The Red Cross announced that 72 assault boats, helicopters and amphibious planes had been sent to the flood area, as well as 75 relief workers from Atlanta and St. Louis.

"Americans have shown what they can do with their minds and hands in producing the ships, planes, guns, tanks, ammunition and all the materials needed to crush the Axis hordes. Now, in this month of April, America will show what Americans can do with their hearts in providing the clothing needed to relieve the suffering of millions of people in war-torn countries. MacArthur
Man on the Scene
Not in an Office

This morning's papers carry a dispatch from Sydney, Australia, reporting that the Morning Herald, a critic of General Douglas MacArthur, now praises him "as one of the brilliant strategists of the war." Says the Australian newspaper:

"When forces at his disposal were perilously meager he handled them skillfully and aggressively in defense of Australia. As they expanded he expanded his own resources with consummate ability and unflinching success."

It is no secret among the American newspapermen that there is an underground campaign against MacArthur—and has been from the beginning of the war. But the general's response, daring and luck, have rolled up a record that makes him "solid" with the people. Why don't some people like MacArthur?

Why do some GIs return from the European theater with propaganda against him? Why do some Eisenhower being a real general, while MacArthur is merely the man who is in the office?

Yanks Wedge Into Gap Line Before Naha

By FRANK TREMAINE
Guam, April 9.—(UP)—Tenth Army troops have wedged into the enemy's first major defense line before Naha, capital of Okinawa, in fighting approaching the fury of the bloody Iwo campaign, front reports said today.

Casualties on both sides were mounting, but the Americans were fighting within a mile of the line, the circular street around the heart of the city, and in the north within 1.4 miles of the city's center. They were reported within 8 to 12 inches of the escape gap on the north side of the Da-nub.

Schoenbrunn park, site of the summer palace of the Hapsburg monarchs, and also reached Franz Joseph railway station in the northern part of the city.

In the south the Russians were fighting within a mile of the line, the circular street around the heart of the city, and in the north within 1.4 miles of the city's center. They were reported within 8 to 12 inches of the escape gap on the north side of the Da-nub.
